RAYMOND CRUZ

Cruz is inspired by the aesthetic principles of 'negative space' and 'imperfection'. His practice employs space with focus on black and white. His works revolve around the concept of minimalist zen and the paradox of emotion and the impassive. The artist's works are more of a suggestion rather than a description. It's a mysterious, atmospheric expression of pure silence.

DENNIS DE JESUS

De Jesus' works feature his current take on his contemporary art, it is bigger and way bolder than his preceding works. Dennis' way of living is actually chances in the dark. Most of his adventures are celebrated at night. Black is pretty much a staple shade in Dennis' palate. Substantiated in his displayed paintings, they are entirely in black or dusky hues, surreal yet celebratory, dark yet high spirited.

RENANTE DUBLOIS

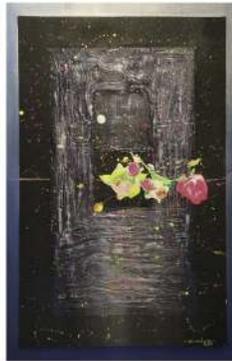

Dublois creates minimalist abstract paintings that seem to radiate how vast the universe is, and how humbling it could be to realize that we are just a small part of a larger whole. The small specks of color create a balance from the otherwise dark vacuum area of the painting.

MARK KENNETH GARCIA

Garcia dabbles in surrealist afterimages. His paintings are strongly dream like in nature, and are mostly aesthetically dark with wonderful glimmers of glowing colors. Some of his works are more saturated in color overall, with an interesting attention towards detail. There is a very strong disparity between his representational and non-representational works and yet, it is the nature of them being dreamlike that bonds them together like glue.

GIEWARD HULAGNO

Hulagno paints representational images that mirror the simple, relaxed life, like a small hut perched beside a river. It radiates the open innocence of living in humility and contentment. His paintings feel like a vacation from the stressful, stimulus-flooded world that we presently live in.

CELESTE LECAROZ

Lecaroz is a well-known artist for her spontaneous realism also known as the Spontanrealismus style. To name a few of her works, she is the genius behind the viral portrait of the legend Kobe Bryan, "Mamba Forever" and the portraits of former Philippine Presidents Manuel L. Quezon and Corazon Aquino.

FERNANDO RAMOS JR.

The art of Ramos is all about the hardships and imperfections that surround life in general. The artist sees these things as spiritual challenges that we can easily overcome as long as we stay strong in faith and positive. This sense of optimism radiates with his paintings as most of his works vibrate a calming atmosphere, like that relaxing feeling you get when you are indoors watching rain lightly trickle on your window.

JOVEL RUIVIVAR

Ruivivar's work shows a man's strength of faith and the boundaries that he is willing to surpass in the name of belief. He has many styles that vary in appearance, sometimes he does abstract, sometimes he even dabbles in pyrography, and there are even times when he does straight up figurative realism. Perhaps he finds strength and enjoyment in this certain display of versatility with his works.
